

Montreal, November 8, 1855.

(COPIY.)

Sir,

I am directed by a company, which is engaged in printing Moral and Religious Books in Canada, to desire you to act as agent for them, in your vicinity. And you will please to exert yourself in favor of an object, which is thought to be well calculated to promote Science, Morality and Religion. Many respectable characters of different denominations, have lent their aid towards republishing said books. You may assure all, who subscribe, that they shall not only have the worth of their money, in the books which are mentioned, in the proposals, but each subscriber will have the pleasant reflection of doing good to the community at large ; as the profits arising from these publications will be applied to charitable purposes.

As a suitable compensation, for your trouble and expense in obtaining subscribers, I am authorised, to promise you 20 per cent. or one book for every five, for which you become responsible.

Yours with due respect,

Nahum Mower.
